Sonbeam

Members:

singjay Sonbeam himself, and the Dub Station backing band

Influences:

all the great singjays (ie. singing 'rappers')

Sounds Like:

Jah Cure, a more soulful Sizzla

About The Artist:

Sonbeam delivers a steady stream of conscious lyrics (click of the audio samples provided). A fireball - both on stage and in the studio - if he doesn't break a sweat within 2 minutes of taking the mic, something's up. His name: 'Sonbeam' - represents the beam of light he's been charged with emanating - both as the son of his parents, and a true child of God. No wonder Coxone Dodd was preparing to voice Sonbeam as the very first singjay for Studio One.

Sonbeam's career got a boost earlier, as his premier CD with Dub Station ("Get it Together") got rave reviews from College Radio all over. Music Choice still runs his rhythms steady. Plenty of live work, including festivals and an appearance with Dub Station and Abijah just last fall in Kingston have laid the foundation for future recordings. Having ...
